Centramedia expands technology services to Borger

PAMPA, TEX. – Centramedia, Pampa-based provider of commercial and residential Internet, computer and networking services to residents across the Texas Panhandle, announced today that its product and service offerings are now available to Borger residents.

“By expanding to Borger, more people will have the opportunity to experience the local and reliable service for which Centramedia is known,” said Technical Operations Manager Jim Sealy. “Reliability is key, and we are equipped to provide customers with 24/7 support.”

In 1998, Centramedia began offering dial-up Internet service to Panhandle residents. The company first introduced high-speed broadband services in 2000, and in October 2005, Centramedia became the 13th largest provider of residential and commercial high-speed wireless broadband services in the nation covering more than 9,600 square miles as noted by Broadband Wireless Online. Centramedia also offers industry-certified business solutions such as network consultation, design, installation and support, secure wireless networks and T1 lines. “Many of our employees have earned industry-recognized certifications,” said Sealy. “Customers who choose Centramedia can depend not only on our quality service but can also take confidence in our certified level of industry knowledge.”

The leading provider of Internet and computer networking services across the Texas Panhandle, Centramedia offers technology solutions to fit the way Panhandle residents work and the way they live. Centramedia contributes its success to its unwavering commitment to technological excellence and responsive, proactive service for valued customers. Centramedia employs professional Internet and networking technicians with more than 100 years of combined experience.
